EARLY CHILDHOOD EXPERT REFERENCE PANEL

Anglicare NT welcomed the first meeting of the Early Childhood Expert Reference Panel in Darwin this week.

‘I am pleased to represent Anglicare NT on the 14-member panel,’ said Anglicare NT CEO Dave Pugh.

‘The panel, made up of nine early childhood experts from the NT and five from around Australia will provide analysis and advice to the NT Government in the preparation of their Early Childhood Development Plan and provide expert advise to the NT Government.’

‘The expert panel is part of the NT Government’s collaborative approach to listen and take decisive action. Through engagement with NGO’s, community organisations and across all sectors of Government, the hope is to create a better future for all Territorians.’

‘By investing in the early years of children’s lives, the objective is to achieve long term, generational economic and social change.’

‘Anglicare NT offers a suite of programs across the Northern Territory which aim to strengthen families and support children and young people. Anglicare NT’s programs support families with young children, young people in residential care, vulnerable youth, young carers and families and youth who are homeless or at risk of becoming homeless,’ said Anglicare NT CEO Dave Pugh.
